

Seven Stories Project Reflection

This was another one of my very first projects in this program, but it allowed me to reflect on my past, present and future. I have done a lot in my time here with everyone else, but I rarely look back and I try to live in the present because that is where the most interesting things can happen. While looking back at this project, this helped me take time and analyze the moments in the past that have shaped who I am today but the challenge of this simple yet very effective project was to choose only 7 stories, but I am firmly say that I have a lot more stories because of this program. I wanted to include this project and my reflection to show my background at the very beginning of my coursework and help you visual what I have done that has made me into the person I am today both academically and personally. Overall, I learned that self-reflection via your own stories can help you not so much brag about yourself but be able to tell your story in a structured way.
